ADMIRAL MAHAN IS CALLED TO LAST ACCOUNTING

Washington, Dec. 1.—Rear Admiral Alfred Thayer Mahan, retired naval expert and writer, died here today.

Admiral Mahan had been a patient in the naval hospital. He was born at West Point, N. Y., 74 years ago and after notable service in the navy was retired in 1898. He was recognized as an international authority on naval warfare and his writings and criticisms of naval affairs attracted wide attention.

He was graduated from the naval academy at Annapolis and promoted through the various grades until he became a captain in 1886. He was retired at his own request. Ten years later, in 1898, he was advanced to the grade of rear admiral, retired. During the Civil war he served on the ship Congress and later during the war served on the South Atlantic blockade squadrons. He has done duty at American naval stations all over the world, had been president of the navy war college at Newport, and during the war with Spain was a highly valued member of the naval board of strategy.

In 1899 he was a delegate to the Hague peace conference. He was a prolific writer on naval subjects. Several weeks ago the admiral and Mrs. Mahan came to Washington from their home at Hague, N. Y., to spend the winter in Washington. About a week ago the admiral suffered an attack of heart trouble and was taken to the naval hospital.

Well, next morning a man came in and arrested us. We weren't on railroad property and the owner of the brickyard hadn't filed any complaint against us for trespassing. I say we weren't legally arrested, because no complaint of trespass was made. We did no damage. We did pick up a little coal along the track.

We were taken before the justice and he told us we were charged with looting and stealing coal. I told him I didn't steal any coal.

Now, my understanding of the law in cases like this is that they must read the law to you and tell you where you have broken it. I wasn't a vagrant and there is no law against looting when you have money to support.

I don't expect to do myself much good by this, but I hope to do something to show conditions that lead to injustice. There are two men here now who have been sent up for sixty days wrongfully. They talk about enforcing the law and break it themselves. They brought two logs down from Isleta on the engine of the train, and the pay says only the crew shall ride on the engine.

The record of Gard's case shows that he was arrested on November 14 by Deputy Sheriff Sosa at San Jose and taken before Justice of the Peace Pedro H. Tartaglia of San Jose. He pleaded guilty to vagrancy, according to the commitment, and was sentenced to pay a fine of $30 or serve thirty days in jail. He had $15 on him.

San Jose, where Gard and his companions were arrested, has suffered considerably from the depredations of tramps, as well as disorderly elements among its own population, and Justice Tartaglia has been forced to lead a movement or "clean up" the community. All bunks arrested in the precinct have been receiving severe sentences. The San Jose tramps have been burning ties, shooting chickens and otherwise proving a nuisance to the neighborhood. There is no question but that the sentence which Justice Tartaglia has been dealing with the situation is approved by the San Jose community at large.

Gard comes of a good family. He is a son of E. Chapin, that of San Francisco, one of the editors of Western Opinion. He received money from his father at Trinidad and money and a ticket were sent to the Santa Fe ticket office here, where they are being held for him.

Elaris are being made to obtain Gard's release through the district court. Neither the sheriff nor the justice have authority to shorten a sentence after formal commitment is delivered in the sheriff's office.

Food adulteration, except in a few instances, he said, "is an economic, not a health problem. As to partially-decayed foods we know nothing about their relation to health."

The clean handling of food is most desirable from a sanitary standpoint, but real cleanliness is most difficult of attainment. Much that appears as carefully written and the emphasis is placed on the wrong thing, as when does someone call all the attention and nothing is said about dirty hands.

Big Bankruptcy Suit Filed.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the federal court here today against Frantz, Green and company, wholesale druggists and dealers in surgical and hospital appliances. Assets are placed at $150,000, and assets at $20,000. Insolvency was denied by counsel for the firm and Judge Landis postponed hearing the motion for a receiver.

Former Swiss Minister Dies.

Berne, Switzerland, Dec. 1 (via Paris, 12:22 p. m.)—Jean Baptiste Pindor, who was minister of Switzerland in the United States in 1902, died yesterday at Asnieres, in Italy, near Zurich, Switzerland.

A great deal of the oak used on the Pacific coast comes from the western part of Asia.

The Sunwald, or city forest of Zurich, Switzerland, adds to the town's revenue $1.34 per acre a year, reducing the amount needed to be raised through taxation by more than $22,000.

In northern Idaho and Montana, which had many fires during the past summer, 25 per cent of the trees on national forests were caused by railroads, 26 per cent by lightning, and 10 per cent by campers. The remainder were due to brush burning and other miscellaneous unknown causes.
